A guide for lecturers

1. Before the start of each semester and registration period, the NaO Coordination Office can be notified of courses that are open to NaO students and/or students from other subjects.
2. The following applies to non-disciplinary students who take the course outside their curriculum:
  - ✓ The registration is regular (LSF, E-Learning)
  - ✓ It should be orientated to your own academic level, exceptions are up to the lecturer.
  - ✓ Students from the departments from which the course originates have priority.
  - ✓ The teacher is free to decide how many additional NaO students are admitted.
  - ✓ The lecturer is free to decide how many CPs they offer to NaO students and which examinations are to be taken.
3. The courses are regularly attended by the students. In order to take the examination, students from other subjects or faculties must also register regularly via the examination office of the faculty offering the course.
